An Update on Our Vines & Wines!

Here at Monserate Winery, we take great pride in our wines, something that would not be possible without our beautiful vineyards and amazing winemaker, Justin Mund!

The weather has been great for the 2024 growing season so far, with less disease pressure than normal. We should have a great crop from almost all of our varieties this year.

This will be our first year harvested a new variety to Monserate, our Nero d'Avola! This Sicilian grape is gaining popularity, and should make a nice wine for you all to enjoy!

The end of August is projected to start the harvest season, with Malvasia Bianca picked first for our sparkling!

Our 2023 Pompeii & Pinot Noir were just bottled this last week, along with a barrel-fermented 2023 Falanghina. These will stay in bottle for some time before they are ready to be released.

We are so grateful for Justin & look forward to sharing great wine from our vines with you soon!
